The City of New York in a recent enactment has decided to modernize the historic and antiquated ALLEN STREET. B. PALESCHUCK'S "HOUSE OF METAL WARE" has anticipated this somewhat of a "LITTLE RENNAISANCE" on the part of the city, and has "cleaned up" house long before the city had thought of doing so.

There is therefore little wonder that we have been acclaimed by one of the leading conservative daily newspapers as being the one institution selling authentic antique reproductions, with the newest and most modern of methods; methods which have proven satisfactory to thousands of our customers throughout the United States.

By perusing through this our latest catalog you cannot be but impressed by the extent and variety of the objects displayed, and yet the objects themselves are necessary to show off the beauty of their lustre, enhanced by the gracefulness and charm of their lines.

For gifts or for the home, we cannot think of anything more appropriate than articles in brass, copper or pewter. The color of these is never out of key in any color harmony, and there are so many interesting and unusual items illustrated here that it is scarcely possible for such a purchase to be misapplied. The fine depth of the tooling, the accuracy of detail in the design, the perfection of each individual piece, increase their beauty and add to their usefulness.

To our many clients who have purchased from us, the above descriptions are not at all necessary. To those others whose patronage we earnestly solicit, we can only say that a single trial will assure them of the sincerity and truth of our statement.
